BS 8599

The British Standard that provides comprehensive guidance for the selection, use, and management of first aid kits in the workplace and public areas. Published by the British Standards Institution (BSI), this standard establishes minimum requirements for first aid kit contents, container specifications, and maintenance procedures

ANSI/ISEA Z308.1-2021

The voluntary consensus standard that provides detailed minimum requirements for workplace first aid kits and supplies. This standard is explicitly referenced by OSHA as the primary guidance for compliance with 29 CFR 1910.151(b). The 2021 revision introduced significant updates including the addition of tourniquets and splints to Class B kits, reflecting modern emergency medical best practices.

DIN 13157

The German national standard (Deutsches Institut für Normung) that specifies the minimum requirements for first aid kits in workplaces and public buildings. This standard defines the contents, packaging, and labeling requirements for "Verbandkasten" (first aid boxes) used throughout Germany, Austria, and other German-speaking regions

DIN 13169 (Extended Standard)

Enhanced first aid kit for larger workplaces or higher-risk environments. Contains increased quantities of basic supplies plus additional specialized items for more complex injury management

General First Aid Kit Contents Checklist

#1 Sterile Items

Alcohol Pad disinfect a wound.

Ointment disinfects and kick starts treatment of a wound.

Pads clean the area around a wound, wipe away any liquid, or use with tape as a secured cushion.

Gauze swab wound coverage, Exudate absorption, Hemostasis aid, Cleaning & care, Dressing fixation

Non woven dressing Breathable protection, High absorption, Barrier against germs, Catheter fixation.

Eye Pad Eye protection, Pressure application, Sterile barrier, Post-op care

#2 Protective Gear

Gloves protect a wound from infection, as well as your hands.

Masks protect your mouth from inhaling any fumes or particles.

#3 Bandages & Dressings

Standard bandages are long, thin, and rolled up. This type of bandage is used to stop bleeding and act as support for joint injuries.

Triangle bandages are bandages that have a triangle shape. This type of bandage is easily foldable and perfect for sterilization or putting pressure on large wounds.

Wound dressing is a large sterilized pad that is typically used for more major injuries. This type of dressing applies enough pressure to minimize or even stop bleeding while emergency services are on their way.

Band aids are typical bandages that are usually small in size. They have sticky ends and a plush middle that applies pressure, so a wound is covered and stops bleeding. Band aids are typically used for minor injuries.

Cotton ball For wiping and disinfecting skin and wounds.

Cotton wool roll Used with bandages to apply pressure for bleeding control and wound protection.

#4 Miscellaneous

Pain relievers, such as Tylenol, which lessen pain from an injury.

Scissors to cut bandages and other products that come rolled up.

Tape to secure bandages and dressings.

First aid guide where you can refer to product information and general step-by-step processes, so you can practice good first aid.

Mini compass that can tell directions in case you get lost or need to identify an area.

CPR Mask that can help you revive someone in case they aren't breathing.

Poncho that will keep you dry.

Glow stick that provides some light in case of an emergency and could also potentially alert others where you are.

Flashlight to illuminate an area in case you don't have access to light or get lost.

Matches that act as a source of light or heat.

Plastic bags that will keep you dry or act as trash bags.

Emergency Blanket that will protect you and keep you warm.

Whistle that can help you alert other people nearby that you need help.

TPE Tourniquet Highly recommend for nursing, first aid training, phlebotomy and anatomy class, IV infusion or physician solo practice.

Tweezers for sterile handling of small medical or laboratory items to prevent contamination.

Ice pack Provides instant cold therapy to relieve pain and reduce swelling from injuries, and keeps temperature-sensitive items cool during transport.

Cotton swab Ideal for wound cleaning, applying ointments, and general first-aid hygiene.
